1.0 Introduction

This is the GCFC's Yameneko549 bringing you a new FAQ for Pokemon FireRed and LeafGreen's Fame Checker. I'll tell you how to get it, where each entry is, and what is said in the entry. Ready? Let's go!

2.0 How to Get the Fame Checker

Ok. In Cereulan City, your Rival fights you near Nugget Bridge. He'll give you the Fame Checker, but only if you beat him. I'll help you out on this.

-----
RIVAL Battle

---

Charmander Team (If you chose Bulbasaur)

Lv.18 Pidgeotto (Flying\Normal)
Lv.15 Abra (Psychic)
Lv.15 Rattata (Normal)
Lv.18 Charmander (Fire)

Battle Strategy:

Pidgeotto: Use a Pikachu with Thundershock or Geodude with Rock Throw to waste the bird.

Abra: What a joke. Send out a low level pokemon that needs EXP to beat it. Don't worry, it won't attack.

Rattata: Hyper Fang is your only worry here. Use a Nidoran with Double Kick if you have one, otherwise, just use a Lv.15 or above pokemon to waste it.

Charmander: Your only real worry. If You have Geodude with Magnitude, use it, but watch out for Metal Claw.

Bulbasaur Team (If You chose Squirtle)

Lv.18 Pidgeotto (Flying\Normal)
Lv.15 Abra (Psychic)
Lv.15 Rattata (Normal)
Lv.18 Bulbasaur (Grass\Posion)

Battle Strategy:

Pidgeotto: Use a Pikachu with Thundershock or Geodude with Rock Throw to waste the bird.

Abra: What a joke. Send out a low level pokemon that needs EXP to beat it. Don't worry, it won't attack.

Rattata: Hyper Fang is your only worry here. Use a Nidoran with Double Kick if you have one, otherwise, just use a Lv.15 or above pokemon to waste it.

Bulbasaur: Vine Whip, Posion Powder, and Sleep Powder are big worries here. Use Items when you need to and don't let up.

---

Squirtle Team (If You chose Charmander)

Lv.18 Pidgeotto (Flying\Normal)
Lv.15 Abra (Psychic)
Lv.15 Rattata (Normal)
Lv.18 Squirtle (Water)

Battle Strategy:

Pidgeotto: Use a Pikachu with Thundershock or Geodude with Rock Throw to waste the bird.

Abra: What a joke. Send out a low level pokemon that needs EXP to beat it. Don't worry, it won't attack.

Rattata: Hyper Fang is your only worry here. Use a Nidoran with Double Kick if you have one, otherwise, just use a Lv.15 or above pokemon to waste it.

Squirtle: Water Gun and Bite are the main moves it uses. It'll also use Withdraw at times. Use a Pikachu with Thundershock. If you don't have a Pikachu, just attack with anything.

-----

Once you've beaten him, he'll run off, but come back and hand you the Fame Checker. It records conversations you've heard, but only certian ones.

4.0 Discussion on various Fame Checker Entries

Here, I'll post things people have sent me concerning various FC entries.

CyrusMajin writes:

I have some theories and facts about the translation of the Pokemon games that you might find useful for your FAQ. So here we go.

1) You seem to have a problem with Nintendo (though GameFreaks was the actual development company) making Lt. Serge a verteran of the American Army in Leaf Green/Fire Red. First, this has always been the case in the Japanese version of the first games in the series (called Red and Green in Japan). Having played at least to that point in the Japanese, I can verify that Serge is American by the fact that the game says so in Katakana on the sign infront of his gym which says [through romanizing the kana] 'Laitoningu American" or Lightning American and by token of the fact that he and all the trainers are talking in Katakana, which is used for foreign words, to emulate his speaking English in the game. Through reading the Katakana of Serge and the other trainers of his gym, I can also verify that he was a member of the Army. However, I don't recall him having been in a war. As far as how the section was translated in Red/Blue I can't tell you if this information was kept when it was localized. And as far as how Johto, Kanto, and Hoenn are on our planet, I guess the best explanation is that they are a set of islands that haven't yet been discovered. (Note: Pokemon is not the first game/fictional story to have a made up place be somewhere on our planet so connecting it to the real world has little importance).

2) The difference in the spelling of Koga's daughter name between G/S/C and FR/LG is just a difference in translation. It could have been that the translation team for G/S/C thought that "Charine" (Possible pronunciation: Chyah-ree-neh) was to wierd of a name and chose one that was spelled almost the same as the romaji version there by giving us the name Janine. This is the same reason that there is a difference between the Japanese names of some Pokemon and the English names. (note: The Pikachu line is one of th ones left unchanged in translation.)

Dan Scarborough writes:

I read through your FAQ, and, while it was very helpful, I feel I should tell you that Kanto, Johto, and Hoenn (spelled with two n's) are not made up, but actully based on areas in Japan. Hoenn is based on the island of Kyūshū, rotated ninety degrees. Kanto is based on the Kantou plains. Johto is a conglomeration of areas in Japan, and Orre, the area in Pokemon Colluseum is, believe it or not, based on the area around Phoenix, Arizona ("Phenac" and "Phoenix" get it?).

Tom writes:

In your FAQ for the Fame Checker in FireRed/LeafGreen, I read though it and picked up on a connection for Lance. They mention a 'grandfather' who is the elder of a dragon masters thing. Could this possibly be the Dragon Master of the Elite Four in Hoenn?

TeraDyne's Notes:

I'm going to have to agree with Tom here. Drake is most likely Lance's grandfather. For one thing, he looks like he would be Lance's grandfather. He also acts like Lance in certian ways, like his choice of wording before you battle him.
