Then head to Lilycove City.

LILYCOVE CITY

Available Pokemon : Tentacool, Magikarp(Old Rod), Wailmer(Good Rod), Wingull
Staryu(Super Rod)

Fortree, then fly to Fortree, and talk to the man in notheast tree house to receive a Mental Herb, then return to Mossdeep City.

Go to the house near the back of Space Center, the Fisherman will give you Super Rod, go to the Space Center and talk to the man near the entrance for a Sun Stone. Then... screw the gym.

The gym here've some puzzles but in less than 10 minutes I believe you guys can pass it, then the leader battle here's a bit different(Double Battle). Well if you already cought Absol/Carvanha will be very valuable allies here and some Water Pokemon with Surf :). After the battle you'll be rewarded with Mind Badge, Dive may be used out of the battle, and TM 04. Then head to...

Trainer : -. Bird Keeper Byron : Swellow, Pelipper
 -. Fisherman Jonah : Wailmer x 2, Sharpedo, tentacool
 -. Fisherman Henry : Tentacool, Carvanha, Tentacruel

Trainer : -. Team Magma Grunt : Poochyena, Numel
 -. Team Magma Grunt : Numel
 -. Magma Admin Courtney : Camerupt, Mightyena
 -. Magma Leader Maxie : Mightyena, Crobat, Camerupt

 Chinchou(Dive)
Trainer : -. Swimmer M Barry : Gyarados
 -. Swimmer F Nikki : Marill, Wailmer, Spheal

Just Dive and head south, then you'll eventually see a cave; enter and rise.

Pokemon Available : Magikarp, Gyarados(RARE)

Well all the house're locked - then head north and enter the cave.

Available Pokemon : Zubat, Golbat, Mawhile,

Well the route's quite straight forward, bring a Pokemon who can use Flash and make sure you don't forget to take HM 07, and at the very bottom of this cave, you'll fight Groudon/Kyorge Lv.45(USE THE MASTER BALL!!!), then exit the cave.

SOOTOPOLIS CITY

Available Pokemon : Magikarp, Gyarados(RARE)

Go to the house next to P.C. for a Wailmer Doll, then go to the next house and bring a Barboach and Shroomish, they'll give you an Elixir(both of them), then go to northwest house, talk to the man there for TM 31. Head to the gym.

Well the gym're a bit tricky... well here's the solution:

Key: u = up r = right l = left d = down

1st floor: u,r,u,l,l,u,r,u

2nd Floor: u,l,l,l,u,u,r,r,d,r,r,r,d,r,u,u,l,l,l,u

,r,d,r,u,r,d,r,u,r,u,u

Well, against Wallace isn't that hard-Electric/Grass Pokemon come to mind but if you already have Gardevoir, use TM 24(Thunderbolt) on it, Psychic and Thunder're a quite devastating combination. After the battle Wallace will reward you with a Rain Badge, HM 07(Waterfall) may be used out of the battle, and TM 03.

After this head to the last challenge: Ever Grande City.

Start playing. Access the Pokemon option in the menu. You'll see a circle with a ? in it. It is lv. 0 with 0 HP which means 0 in all stats. It has no moves... BUT if you access them, the game will have some odd symbols running in the description box and will freeze. If you try to access other pokemon (which you cannot have any at game start) which you have none of, you'll keep seeing No. 000 with random statuses - even Pokerus!!! And KO. And so on. Then you'll see eggs near hatching. DO NOT GO BUT 2-3 more past this or the game will freeze. If you see a BAD EGG near hatching, EXIT. The game is maybe 1 step or is milliseconds away from freezing up. He'll disappear from your game file if you catch a pokemon. Since you cannot have a party of zero, this is activated only before you get a starter.

If you have anymore info, let me know PLEASE!!! E-mail: SKYDRIFTER@aol.com

5. BreedingS5**

Breeding Requirements and Child Species

So you want to breed pokemon, huh? Let's start with the basics. First off, you will need a male and a female. They must have at least one egg group in common, see section VIII for compatible mates. The child will always be the same family as the FEMALE, in the lowest evolutionary stage (exception: Wobbufet and Marill, see below). Finally, you must put the male and female pokemon together in the daycare center on route 117. The child will always be level 5 coming out of its egg. It's OT will match the trainer holding the egg when it hatches. It's nature will be random, or at least I haven't found a pattern yet.

If it says they prefer to play with other pokemon, there is no chance of getting an egg.

The more friendly the two are, the faster they will produce an egg (usually, it's all based on chance). Even if it says "A doesn't seem to like B", this will still produce an egg, it will simply take longer.

As for Merrill and Wobbufet. In order to get their lowest forms, you must make one parent hold a Sea Incense for a Azurill, or else you will get a Merrill. Likewise, one parent must hold a Lax Incense to get a Wynaut, otherwise you will get a Wobbufet.

Abilities

There are 3 basic categories of pokemon as far as Abilities go.

- 1) The pokemon will always have a set ability. This one is easy. The child will have the set ability of that pokemon. An example of this is Skitty. Skitty and Delcatty will always have Cute Charm.
- 2) The pokemon will have one of two abilities, and it will remain the same in all evolutionary states. The child will have the same ability as it's mother. The Seedot family is an example of this, all 3 forms will have either Chlorophyll or Early Bird, and will keep the same ability as it evolves.
- 3) The pokemon changes it's ability as it evolves. An example of this is Slakoth family. Slakoth will have Truant, then Vigoroth will have Vital Spirit, and finally Slaking will have Truant again. I haven't experimented with this category yet, but I suspect the child will always have the ability of it's evolutionary level, so a Slakoth will have Truant even if it's mother was a Vigoroth (with Vital Spirit).

Attitude, Stats, and Contests

Every pokemon has an attitude. When it's egg is produced, the pokemon has an attitude, selected at random. These attitudes affect stats. They also affect what flavors they like, in turn, how well they can build their stats for a contest.

There is a direct link between which stats are affected, and how much it likes a flavor, and each flavor is linked to a contest trait. The stat with a bonus will be related to the flavor it likes, and the stat with a penalty will be related in the same way to the flavor it dislikes.

Attack - Spicy - Cool
Defense - Sour - Tough
Sp. Att - Dry - Beauty
Sp. Def - Bitter - Smart
Speed - Sweet - Cute

If it eats a flavor it likes, the results for the pokeblock will increase. Likewise, if it eats a flavor it dislikes, the pokeblock will be less effective than normal. If it has both/neither flavor, it will raise the pokemon's attributes normally.

Neutral attitudes (no preference in stats/flavor)

Bashful
Docile
Hardy

Adamant - Sp. Att down
Naughty - Sp. Def down
Brave - Speed down

Calm - Attack down
Gentle - Defense down
Careful - Sp. Att down
Sassy - Speed down

Speed Up

So how do you get a pokemon with the attitude you want? Well, all you can do is keep breeding it until you get the attitude you like. If you are only aiming for one specific contest, you'll get the best results with any of the 4 with the bonus you want. If you want to raise all the stats, you'll want to use a neutral attitude or make sure you always mix bad with good in terms of flavor.

Stats and Hidden Power

Stats are based on the stats of the parent pokemon, as well as it's attitude. Hidden Power is based on stats and varies in attack type and power based on stats.

To find the stats of a specific monster, please feel free to use my stat program at <http://www.isaent.com/ivcalc.htm>

When two pokemon breed, the resulting child will inherit the IV's of three of its six stats from its parents. Which stats and which parent these IV's come from appears to be random. For example, a child may take it's Father's Attack IV, its mother's Speed and special defense IVs. It may take all 3 from a parent, but will most likely have a mix from both. As for how much control this gives you over stats... Well, in terms of only IVs, there are over a billion possible values total, not considering nature, gender, shinyness, ect. With breeding, you limit the possibilities for the child's stats to about 3% of that.

I have not yet experimented with Ditto as far as IV passing. What does this mean for breeding for a specific Hidden Power? quite a lot. There are 12 bits that affect Hidden Power: The low bit of each IV affects type, the next bit affects power. So that means you can control 6 of the 12 bits every time! That means rather than having a 3/4096-4/4096 chance of getting the exact HP you want, your odds increase to 1/64 more or less if you choose the right parents.

So how do IVs affect the hidden power? Let's start with type. The low bits are used to create a binary number, with HP at the low bit, followed by attack, defense, speed, special attack, and special defense at the high bit. For those that don't know binary, start with zero, add 1 if the EV for HP is odd, 2 if the EV for Attack is odd, 4 for Defence, 8 for Speed, 16 for Special Attack, and 32 for Special Defense. Then look at the chart below with the resulting number.

- 0-4 Fighting
- 5-8 Flying
- 9-12 Poison
- 13-16 Ground
- 17-20 Rock
- 21-25 Bug
- 26-29 Ghost
- 30-33 Steel
- 34-37 Fire
- 38-41 Water
- 42-46 Grass
- 47-50 Electric
- 51-54 Psychic
- 55-58 Ice
- 59-62 Dragon
- 63 Dark

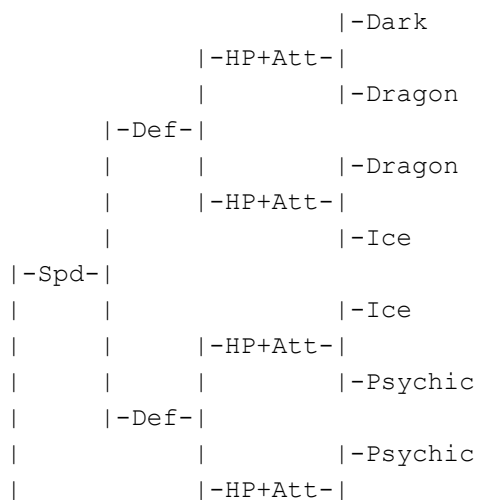

If you need another approach, follow the flow chart below:

If the named IV is ODD, go up the chart, go down if the IV is even.

When two IVs are listed seperated by a "+", go up only if BOTH are odd, if either or both are even, go down.

When two IVs are listed seperated by a "/", go up if either or both are odd, if both are even, go down.

For power, there is no such flow chart. Start by dividing all your IVs by 2, and drop any fraction. So half of 31 would be 15, half of 13 would be 6. We'll call this the Halved-IV after here.

(Approximate Version)

Start with a base power of 30. If the Halved-IV for Special Defense is odd, add 20 to the base power. If the Halved-IV for Special Attack is odd, add another 10. Speed, 5, Defense, 2, Attack, 2, and HP, 1.

(Exact Version)

Start with 0. If the Halved-IV for Special Defense is odd, add 32. If the Halved-IV for Special Attack is odd, add 16. Speed, 8, Defense, 4, and HP, 1. Now, Take this number, multiply it by 40 and divide by 63. Drop any fraction and add 30. This is the base power.

Moves

All pokemon can learn moves in one of 3 ways.

- 1) Level moves. These are moves that a monster learns by gaining levels.
- 2) Machine moves. These are moves that a pokemon learns through the use of a TM or an HM.
- 3) Egg moves. These are moves that can only be learned through breeding.

Every monster has a set of moves it will learn at birth. However, depending on its parents, it may learn more moves, and perhaps differnt ones. Here's how moves are passed from parents to their children.

- 1) All moves the pokemon would learn from levels 1 to 5.
- 2) If both parents know a move they can learn by leveling and the child can learn the move by leveling (not evolving), the child will be born knowing the move.
- 3) If the father knows a move that the child can learn through a TM, the child will know the move. For example, if a Torchic knows flame thrower (TM 35), whether he learned it by level or by TM, he can pass this move onto a Rhyhorn, since Rhyhorn can use TM 35.
- 4) If the father knows one of its child's egg moves, the child will know the move. For example, a Doduo can pass it's Drill Peck onto a Skarmory.

Other Breeding Tips

Always aim to get female monsters. When you have to choose one of several monsters, save before you get the monster and make sure it's female. If you will only get one of a monster, save before you get the monster and make sure it's female. If you want a male, then take the female and breed it, at least then you have the option of breeding.

When you teach a TM to a pokemon, especially a TM you can only get one of, use it on a male. From there you can pass the move on to other pokemon. Some TMs such at Hidden Power and Rest can be used by virtually all pokemon. No matter who you use those TMs on, as long as they are male and breedable, there is a way to get the technique to any other species. Want an example? Let's get Hidden Power from a Nosepass to a Bagon. One chain is Nosepass (Stone) -> Snorunt (Stone/Fairy) -> Skitty (Fairy/Field) -> Seviper (Field/Dragon) -> Bagon (Dragon). Now that's an extreme example, but you see my point. If you teach it to a female, no one else can learn it.

+ Illumise is always female, and Volbeat is always male. However, a Illumise can have either egg. So a female Illumise CAN yield a baby Volbeat.

* The mother (Merill or Azumerill) or the father must be holding the sea Incense when they are deposited at the day care center. If they are, the child will be a Azurill, otherwise, the child will be a Marill

 The mother (Wobuffet) or the father must be holding a Lax Incense when they are deposited at the day care center. If they are, the child will be a Wynaut, otherwise, the child will be a Wobuffet.

 These are rare monsters which you can only get one of in a game

*SO Only one, Sapphire only

*RO Only one, Ruby only

Breeder Items

There are a few items which are critical to the evolution of your monsters. Well some of these are not directly linked to breeding, most are critical for evolution. So here's the list:

- Fire Stone - found on Fiery Path (you need strength to get to it). You can also trade a Red Shard on route 124 to get another one.
- Leaf Stone - found on route 119, surf down from the weather institute, it's on the right side near the waterfall. You can also trade a Green Shard on route 124 to get one.
- Thunderstone - You can find it in New Mauville near the power plant. You can also trade a Yellow Shard on route 124 for one.
- Water Stone - This is behind one of the locked doors on the abandoned ship. You can trade a Blue Shard on route 124 for another one.
- Sun Stone - The man at the Mossdeep Space Center will give you one. Wild Solrocks, found at Meteor Falls, will occasionally be holding one. Solrocks can only be found in Ruby.
- Moon Stone - This item can be found in the north-west corner on the entrance floor of Meteor Falls. Also, Lunatones will occasionally be carrying one. This pokemon is found in Meteor Falls, also only in Sapphire.
- Dragon Scale - Evolves Seadra into Kingdra if it is held during a trade. This item is held by wild horsea and wild bagon. The easiest method is to find horsea and use thief to take their scale if they are holding one.
- Deepseascale - After you give the Scanner to Capt. Stern in Slateport, he will give you the Deepseascale or the Deepseetooth. The scale will evolve Clamperl into Gorebyss
- Deepseetooth - After you give the Scanner to Capt. Stern in Slateport, he will give you the Deepseascale or the Deepseetooth. The tooth will evolve Clamperl into Huntail.
- Lax Incense - Found in Mt. Pyre, this will encourage a Wobbuffet to breed a Wynaut instead of a Wobbuffet.
- Sea Incense - Found in Mt. Pyre, let a Merill hold this so its egg will be an Azuril instead of a Merill.
- Heart Scale - Give this to the move tutor to make a pokemon learn a move it once knew. A wild Luvdisc may hold this. I included this because I feel the moves a pokemon has is important to breeding. You can find at least one on the ocean floor.

Trade items...

- Blue Shard - You can find one on route 124 (you'll need surf and dive). Also wild Clamperl holds this. Also, there is at least one on the ocean floor.
- Green Shard - You can find this on route 126. Also, a wild Relicanth may hold this item. Also check the ocean floor.
- Red Shard - Found on route 124. Also, a wild Corsola may hold this. Don't forget to check the ocean floor.
- Yellow Shard - Found on route 124. Also, a wild Chinchou may hold this. Also, there is at least one on the ocean floor.
- Scanner - Found on the abandoned ship, trade for Deepseetooth or Deepseascale.

Rare Monsters and Breeding

According to my definition, a rare monster is one in which you can only obtain one of through the process of the game. Remember, you can only get more of a monster if you got a female, so save before you pick up any rare monsters.

6. Contest GuideS6**

I- Contest S61

This section is really more simple than I'd like it to be, but there's not a lot to it. So, that's alright. First, some definitions:

Definition: Appeal points - the number of total points (hearts) earned by a POKeMON. These points are earned by using moves, and are lost when others jam your POKeMON. These are represented by red hearts that appear in your POKeMON's status box on the right.

Definition: Jam - a loss of points (hearts) due to another POKeMON's move. Jam moves can cause your POKeMON's current score for the round go negative. If this is the case, the number of points your POKeMON will lose are shown by the number of black hearts in the status box.

Now, I'll get into the 'status box'. This box is the section on the right, where all of your POKeMON's status is shown each round. There is a small square there, where most symbols go, but there can also be stars next to it, and a small flashing yellow spot beneath it. In addition to these things, the status box also shows you your current round's appeal points.

"Settled down just a bit", shown by a circle in your POKeMON's status box, prevents your POKeMON from being jammed once during the current round. Once your POKeMON stops one such jam from happening, it is then open to any other jams that occur during that turn.

"Became oblivious to others", shown by a circle in your POKeMON's status box, prevents your POKeMON from being jammed at all during the current round. Unlike the previous circle-status, this one lasts jam after jam, but only for the round you have the circle-status.

Whenever there is a small 'swirly' in your POKeMON's status box, another POKeMON is trying to jam it. As a result of this 'swirly', your POKeMON can have nothing happen (except perhaps to lose the 'settled down' status) if you have a circle-status, or become nervous, or lose good condition, or lose the Judge's attention and fall out of Combo Standby. The exact results of the 'swirly' depend on the move that caused it and your POKeMON's current status.

The stars next to your POKeMON's status box are known as marks of 'good condition'. If a POKeMON has a good condition as a result of one of its earlier moves, that POKeMON earns one additional appeal point for each star that POKeMON has, for each move.

In addition to learning information from your POKeMON's status box, some information can be seen by watching the JUDGE's reaction to your POKeMON's moves. Here are some of them:

JUDGE: "?" When the JUDGE has a question mark over his head, you will then see small boxes under each POKeMON that say 'NEXT TURN: ?'. Basically, this means the turn order has been scrambled.

JUDGE: "1" When the JUDGE has a number one over his head, you will then see a small box under a POKeMON that says 'NEXT TURN: 1'. Basically, this means the turn order has been changed. The POKeMON that has 'NEXT TURN: 1' will go first next turn.

JUDGE: "4" When the JUDGE has a number four over his head, you will then see a small box under a POKeMON that says 'NEXT TURN: 4'. Basically, this means the turn order has been changed. The POKeMON that has 'NEXT TURN: 4' will go last next turn.

JUDGE: 'swirly' When the JUDGE gets a gray swirly over his head, it means a move was repeated from last turn. You lose two appeal points for your first time repeating a move, three appeal points for the second time, four for the third, and five for the fourth. Basically, do not repeat moves if you can avoid it. The move you used last turn is shown in gray, so you know what move to avoid using in case you forgot.

JUDGE: "!" When the JUDGE gets an exclamation mark over his head, your POKeMON will be put into 'Combo Standby' which is shown by a flashing spot beneath your POKeMON's status box. Next turn, if you have a move that can combo with your previous move, it will be shown in read. If you're still in Combo Standby, you will see the next JUDGE reaction.

JUDGE: "!!" When the JUDGE gets two exclamation marks over his head, you have completed a combo. By doing so, you earn addition appeal points based on the base appeal point worth of the second move in the combo. For example, if the combo move was shown to be worth one appeal point, you would earn two appeal points total (one, plus one more for the combo). If the move was shown to be worth eight points, you would earn sixteen points (eight, plus eight for the combo). Note that moves like Spite, which can potentially earn you six points, still only give you one additional point when in a combo, since the 'base' of Spite and similar moves is still only one appeal point.

JUDGE: "*" When the JUDGE gets a star over his head, your POKeMON's status has raised and you will get a star next to your POKeMON's status box.

Finally, here are some important things concerning the Applause Meter and turn order. It is easy to win if you know how to manipulate when you go and who gets the Applause Meter bonus!

If a POKeMON uses a move that is the same Contest-type as the Contest, the Applause Meter (shown on the left sometimes as five empty or full ovals) raises by one and that POKeMON earns an additional appeal point for that appeal.

If a POKeMON uses a move and the Applause Meter fills up as a result of this

(that is, it raises from four to five), that POKeMON earns six appeal points in addition instead of just one.

Turn order, unless otherwise changed or modified, is determined by how well each POKeMON is doing. On the first turn, the turn order is determined by the Preliminary Judging results. That is, the POKeMON with the highest Condition goes first, and the one with the lowest Condition goes last.

Any appeal points a POKeMON has - positive or negative - is added to its score at the end of each round. A POKeMON's score is represented by a small sliding heart beneath its name on the right; however, the score can be less than an empty slider, and can be more than a full slider, so if the slider is all the way to the left or right it could be misleading.

If a POKeMON has an 'X' in its status box, as a result of moves like Explosion or Hyper Beam, that POKeMON misses that turn of appeals, but also can not be jammed on that turn.

To end this section, I will finish off by telling you how many appeal points equals one heart in the Results section. For every four appeal points, you get a single heart. Looking at the small table below, you should figure out the pattern. Note that it is possible to have negative appeal points.

APPEAL:	RESULT:
-8 Points	= -2 Hearts
-7 Points	= -2 Hearts
-6 Points	= -2 Hearts
-5 Points	= -2 Hearts
-4 Points	= -1 Heart
-3 Points	= -1 Heart
-2 Points	= -1 Heart
-1 Point	= -1 Heart
0 Points	= 0 Hearts
1 Point	= 1 Heart
2 Points	= 1 Heart
3 Points	= 1 Heart
4 Points	= 1 Heart
5 Points	= 2 Hearts
6 Points	= 2 Hearts
7 Points	= 2 Hearts
8 Points	= 2 Hearts
9 Points	= 3 Hearts
17 Points	= 5 Hearts
...
37 Points	= 10 Hearts

You require at least five hearts to get a painting made, and the maximum number of hearts that can show up is ten, if you get 37 or more Appeal Points total.

The first Contest Hall you encounter while playing POKeMON RUBY/SAPPHIRE is the one in SLATEPORT CITY. Unfortunately, at this time, you do not have the very important Key Item, "CONTEST PASS", and so can not participate. While you are there, however, you can pick up a POKeBLOCKS CASE from the little girl to the left, since you'll need that to raise your POKeMON's Condition and make it more beautiful, more smart, more tough, and so on.

Anyway, once you've finally reached VERDANTURF you can participate in your very first Contest! Since VERDANTURF is home to the NORMAL RANK Contest Hall, you can enter any POKeMON. After a POKeMON has won NORMAL RANK, it can then move on to SUPER RANK, and then to HYPER RANK, and finally to the prestigious MASTER RANK. Before I go any further, I will list all four of the Contest Halls and which towns they are in.

Contest Rank:	Contest Hall in:
NORMAL RANK	VERDANTURF
SUPER RANK	FALLARBOR
HYPER RANK	SLATEPORT
MASTER RANK	LILYCOVE

In addition to these different ranks, which are essentially the same but with bigger and better POKeMON competing as the ranks go up, there are five different Contest Types. These types are COOL, BEAUTY, CUTE, SMART, and TOUGH. All moves that are used in Contests fall under one of these five categories and you can check just what category your POKeMON's moves fall under simply by going into your POKeMON's status screen and going over past the battle move descriptions to the Contest move descriptions. Here, instead of a POKeMON type such as "FLYING" or "GRASS", you will find the move types fall into the COOL, BEAUTY, CUTE, SMART and TOUGH categories. Because you can check this at any time, including when learning new moves, you can design your POKeMON to be good at both battling and Contests!

It is good to know what Contest-type moves a POKeMON has because a POKeMON can only eat a certain amount of POKeBLOCKS, which raise a POKeMON's Condition. The Condition of a POKeMON is very important to the "Preliminary Judging" done first in a Contest, since the number of stars your POKeMON earns on the Results screen is directly related to how many votes it gets during the Preliminary Judging, which is dependant on your POKeMON's Condition. Thus, you want to feed your POKeMON POKeBLOCKS that fit with the same type of Contest as its moves.

Since I've already mentioned "Preliminary Judging", I am going to describe the steps a Contest takes.

Contest Steps:

Step 1: You register for the Contest. To do this, simply talk to the nice lady at the counter. Remember, however, that in order to compete in SUPER RANK, a POKeMON must have won first place in the NORMAL RANK Contest of the same type.

This also applies to HYPER RANK (as you need the SUPER RANK Ribbon) and also to MASTER RANK (requiring the HYPER RANK Ribbon).

Step 2: Preliminary Judging. Each POKeMON's Condition is evaluated and then the audience votes. You can somewhat tell how well your POKeMON does in this stage of judging by the number of hearts that appear over the audience's heads when it is displayed to them. Your score from the Preliminary Judging is shown as stars on the Results Screen, so if you find you are much lower than your opponents with stars, but still doing alright with hearts, you simply have to raise your POKeMON's Condition and you may be able to win easier.

Step 3: Secondary Judging. Here, POKeMON makes appeals (moves) in an attempt to win the favor of the JUDGE. There are five rounds of appeals, and each POKeMON usually gets to use one appeal each turn. The turn order is shown on the right along with each POKeMON's current score for that turn on the right. Turn order is normally determined by how well a POKeMON is doing.

The POKeMON with the most appeal points (hearts) so far goes first, and the POKeMON with the least appeal points goes last. Different things can happen during this time, so we will be going over it in more detail a bit later.

Step 4: Results. Now you can tell how well you did. The stars represent your POKeMON's Condition, which comes from the Preliminary Judging. The hearts are your appeal points, obtained during the Secondary Judging. The stars and the hearts fill up green meters on the left, and the POKeMON whose meter fills up all the way is declared the winner. Note that you are able to actually have negative appeal points (hearts) at this time! If your hearts are displayed in black rather than pink, you will actually lose points rather than gain them!

The most important step, because it is the longest and the most influential step (and the easiest to change), is Step 3. Appeal time is where your POKeMON gets to use all of its unique Contest moves against the other competing POKeMON in an attempt to come out on top.

II- Moves S62

In this section, moves will be listed as follows:

MOVE TYPE ####j * Move description here (move type)

This would be a move whose name is 'MOVE', of the Contest type 'TYPE', which gives you four appeal points and jams the other POKeMON for two points, and raises the user's condition. Any other information can be learned by reading the place where the move description is. Many moves have the same description and basically do the same thing, so the description is called the 'move type', as opposed to 'contest type' which varies within each 'move type'.

Here is what the symbols all mean:

- # = Appeal Point
- j = Jam Point
- S = Unnerves POKeMON
- * = Ups Condition
- = Worsens Condition
- O = Oblivious for one turn ('became oblivious to others')
- o = Oblivious for one move ('settled down a little')
- X = Loses remaining turns
- x = Loses the next turn
- 1 = Appeal 1st next turn
- 4 = Appeal 4th next turn
- ? = Turn order scrambled next turn
- ! = First part of a COMBO

IV- How to Get S84

By now, you are probably thinking to yourself, "Man! Jirachi is the stuff! I want it! Dan, please tell me how to get it!" Ok. I will.

There are 4 known ways to obtain Jirachi in R/S:

*The first way is by having in your possession a Pokemon: Colosseum Bonus Disc. You can get Jirachi from it. (you'll need a GBA-Gamecube link, and of course, a Gamecube)

*The second way is this: If you have a European or Australian Pokemon Channel, you can download Jirachi from it after completing the game.

*The 3rd way is by obtaining it from a Nintendo event. (I hate it when they do this. The event, of course, already happened)

*the 4th, easiest, and fastest way to get Jirachi (This is the way I used, as i am getting one from my friends bonus Disc, but needed it to write this guide) is to use a Gameshark or Action Replay. Here i have listed the Gameshark SP and action replay codes for it.

Gameshark SP-

10. Latias/LatiosS10**

I- Their Movement S101

Here, in this section, I will explain the pattern, or, the method these Pokemon use to move. They are not exactly like the dogs of G/S, because they are easier/harder to find, depending on how you look at it.

a. They move in a logical pattern. That is, they will move only to an adjacent route. If they are on 121, they will move either to route 120 or 122. Maybe I should clarify this. If you are on route 120 and move to route 121, and they are on route 120, they will move either to route 121 or 119. This should stem a certain flow of emails, I hope.

b. They will teleport if you use fly. This is a key point to take note of in an attempt to capture them. More on that in the next section.

c. Once you see them for the first time, and can track them with the Pokedex, but you should follow a small set of basic rules.

- A. If there is one, three, five, etc. routes between you and Lati*s, there is a chance that you will cut them off. Of course, the more routes between you and him/her, the less chance you have to cut them off.
- B. If you are on the route next to them, or have two, four, six, etc. between you, then there is no chance to cut them off. You will have to start over again. ($20 says I get emails from people who don't understand that last sentence!!)
- C. Once you are the same Route as Lati*s, save. This will not cause them to stay on that route if you re-load, but it will allow you to re-load if you were to say... kill him/her.
- D. Don't use repels. I didn't and my brother didn't. I took my time to write this guide and find out key points. My brother had worked on catching Latios for 20 hours (He, not bearing my cunning and knowledge).
I got him to test this. 20 minutes later, he came running into the room saying he caught Latios. Don't doubt me, man. I wrote this, and you are reading it. That means I am right.
- E. You can't walk back and forth, like in G/S. If you go from route 120 to route 121, then back and forth from there, it will cause Latios and Latias to stand still. You are effectively locking the door on yourself.
- F. Fighting wild Pokemon does not force them to move. They will sit on a single route (one that you are not on), laughing at you if you keep fighting wild Pokemon hoping to see them.

d. Recommended Pokemon

i. Golbat, He can learn Mean Look, and if you capture him in the sky pillar, he already knows it. The downside is that everything Latias/Latios throw at you will level him, and break the look. They run... end of story...

- ii. Dusclops, This guy can learn Mean Look. 'Nuff said.
- iii. Wobuffet, It's ability also stops Latias/Latios from running away. This is also a good choice.
- iv. Any dark type (They are immune to psychic attacks.) You just have to stall them.

There are many more. Send them in, if you have suggestions.

II- Capture! S102

Note: Latias is only in Sapphire and Latios is only in Ruby.

It took me hours of searching for Latias in frustration before I was able to write this. Please, benefit from this information!

Here Goes:

Ok, first of all, you must choose a base city. This city cannot have multiple land-based entries. Do not pick somewhere like Rustboro, because the you have about 1/4 the chance of seeing them vs. choosing a less "routed" center. For the purpose of establishing a center, I chose Lilycove city, and used route 121. This was the best area for me, but if you choose to ignore me, good luck to you!

First fly, not walk, to your base city. This is important, and I cannot stress this enough. My brother screwed that part up. (I need you to learn from our mistakes, if you want to catch him/her)

Once there, heal and make sure a good Pokemon leads your party. I would recommend a Pokemon that knows Mean Look, or has an ability that stops running. I chose a Golbat, which was the stupidest move I ever made, because every move Latias/Latios knows is super effective against it.

Walk into the adjacent route to your base city and fight about 10 random battles.

If they are on that route, they show up at a VERY common rate. You will usually see them in 1-4 battles, but I don't like to make guarantees.

After you have fought the battles, FLY! back to (insert city here). You may be one space away from your city, but they will not change routes unless you FLY! I mean, use some sense, I made the last section for a reason.

Once you have flown back to your city, heal as necessary, and return to your route and repeat. It is that easy.

After you have seen Latias/Latios, this is even easier to employ, as you will where the Latias/Latios is. Fly to your city and check your Pokedex. I will use Lilycove, as I am too lazy to really explain this. Follow the movement section of the guide. If Latias/Latios is on Route 120 or 122, you can move onto Route 121 and hope that it chose to move into you, if not, you can follow it and hope it doubles back.

I- Info S111

Information on Regirock, Regice and Registeel will be split into the following sections:

- * Information from the Pokedex
- * Pokemon summary:
 - * Pokemon Info - basic information on the pokemon.
 - * Pokemon Skills - info on stats and experience.
 - * Battle Moves - moves the Pokemon knows, what type it is, the PP of the move, what the move does and how powerful it is in a battle.

* Contest Moves - moves the Pokemon knows, what type it is, the PP of the move, what type the move is and how effective it is in a contest.

* Move List - moves each Regi can learn when going up levels.

* TM & HM Compatibilities.

Note: Next to some moves, a % will appear. This means that this is a Special Attack. When one of your Pokemon uses a Special Attack, the damage it deals is based upon your Sp. Atk and the opponent's Sp. Def.

 II- You need... S112

Here is a list of what you will need on your mini-quest to find, and hopefully capture the three Regi Pokemon:

* Relicanth (can be found on Route 124, Route 125, Route 126 and Shoal Cave - only on the ocean floor)

* Wailord (catch a Wailmer on Route 103, Route 105, Route 106, Route 107, Route 108, Route 109, Route 110, Route 115, Route 122, , Route 123, Route 124, Route 125, Route 126, Route 127, Route 128, Route 129, Route 130, Route 131, Route 132, Route 133, Route 134, Island Cave, Dewford Town, Slateport City, Cycling Road, Mt. Pyre, Lilycove City, Mossdeep City, Shoal Cave, Seafloor Cavern, Mirage Island, Pacificdlog Town and Ever Grande City - all by fishing). You will need to raise Wailmer to Lv.40 so it evolves into Wailord. Or you can try to find a Wailord by surfing along Route 129.

* A Pokemon which knows Surf

* A Pokemon which knows Dive

* A Pokemon which knows Dig

* A Pokemon which knows Fly

* Poke Balls to catch them in (try to have about 5 - 10 of nearly every sort. Sometimes they will resist but if your persistent and patient, you will catch hopefully all of them).

* Pokemon to battle the three Regi's.

* Knowledge of Braille. You can look in the next section to get familiar with the Braille alphabet, or you can just read the guide which has everything translated from Braille to English.

 III- Digital Braille S113

At certain parts of your mini-quest you will encounter Braille inscriptions. To many, they will just seem like dots on the wall, but they have a meaning behind them. Braille is represented in two vertical lines of three dots. A "shaded" dot will be represented as "O", whereas "unshaded" dots will be represented as ".". Listed here is the Braille alphabet. It is fairly easy to understand once you have looked at it, then at some of the Braille inscriptions in the game.

 IV- Capture S114

1- Unlock Areas S1141

OK, when you have the above you can start. First off make your way to Pacificdlog Town (if your not already there) and surf to the west. You'll encounter lots of water with a strong current here which will carry you in one direction and you won't be able to move, so where you choose to surf is important. Go to the bottom of the screen and find the part of water which looks like this:

you come across a dark blue patch of water (don't surf too quickly or you might miss it!) which you can use to dive on. It should look like this:

Here's this picture explained from the middle: The middle is where you Dive, the two outer areas around the Dive area is just Surfable water.

Once underwater, enter the cave. Go down until you get to a part where there is a rock in the middle of the water with dots on it. This is Braille. The inscription here says "Go up here." Now dive back up to the surface.

You should come across a whole heap of rocks with Braille inscriptions. The long rocks have letters of the alphabet on them, while the two smaller rocks have a comma (,) and a period (.) on them. Walk up the back and read what the inscription says: "Dig here." Use dig, then enter the newly made entrance.

There are seven rocks in this room (or four rows). We will call the closest rocks to when you walk in Row One, and so on.

This is what each rock says:

- Row One, Left Rock - "Those With Courage, Those With Hope."
- Row One, Right Rock - "Open A Door. An Eternal Pokemon Awaits."
- Row Two, Left Rock - "But, We Sealed The Pokemon Away."
- Row Two, Right Rock - "We Feared It."
- Row Three, Left Rock - "In This Cave We Have Lived."
- Row Three, Right Rock - "We Owe All To The Pokemon."

You will now come across a rock at the back of the cave which is in the middle. If you read the inscription here it says: "First Comes Relicanth. Last Comes Wailord." If you haven't already done so, swap your pokémon so Relicanth is in position one and Wailord is in position six of your party. Now press on the inscription. If done correctly you should hear what sounds like an earthquake. Then you should hear the sound of three doors opening, each one to a different Regi Pokéon!

Note: For the guide, I have written how to catch the pokemon in a different order to their corresponding pokemon number, if you were wondering why they are listed in a different order from the pokemon information to the guide. I.e. Regirock is 193, Regice is 194 and Registeel is 195. In the guide I have chosen to write them in the order as Regice, Registeel and Regirock.

  2- Get them!  S1142
-----
Regice
-----

After you have opened the doors correctly, leave the cave and fly to Dewford Town. From Dewford Town, go up then surf left and up to a little island with trees and a man on it. Go to the left of this island then continue up to an island with a little mountain surrounded by rocks. Enter here and press on the Braille inscription which reads:

"Stop and wait. Wait for time to pass twice." After roughly two minutes there should now be a door right in front of you! Walk in and prepare for a battle with Regice!

Registeel

After you have either caught or defeated Regice, leave the cave and fly to Lilycove City and head left to the Safari Zone. Don't enter the Safari Zone, but continue left on Route 120. You should see some steps ahead of you. Go up them and continue up through the very tall thick grass (the grass that you can't ride your bike through). Continue up more steps and enter the cave. Walk up to the inscription on the wall. It reads:

"With new time, hope and love, aim to the sky in the middle." Now walk to the middle of the room and use fly! Now there should be a new door which you can enter to battle Registeel!

Regirock

After Registeel comes the last of the three Regi's - Regirock. You need to now fly to Mauville City. After landing head up on Route 111 and don't stop until you come to the desert (the desert you couldn't enter unless you have the Go-Goggles). Enter into the desert and make your way to the very bottom right corner of the desert. This is where you will find the last of the ancient tombs. Enter and as usual walk up to the back of the room to the Braille inscription. This one says:

"Right, right, down, down. Then, use strength." From the inscription go two steps right and to steps down, then use strength. The entrance will now open!

A basic guide to catching the three Regi's would be:

- 1) Make sure which ever Pokemon's HP you are battling is nearly all gone. (look below a little bit for a quick guide of what is good against Ice, Steel and Rock pok^驚on)
- 2) Use a move that will put the Pokemon to sleep (or switch to one that knows how to - you could possibly use the Relicanth that you needed to open the doors to the Regi locations because it knows Yawn, which will put the pokemon you are battling to sleep after two turns). That's It!

Its basically trial and error in regards to what balls will catch the Regi's. Try as many different types of poke balls except DON'T use a Master Ball unless you feel like it's necessary (it would just be a waste) or you happen to have spare ones. The main thing to remember is to be PERSISTENT and PATIENT!!

For example:

On Regice I used a Luxury Ball.
On Registeel I used a Net Ball and on Regirock I used a Great Ball.

If you don't want to catch any of the three Regi's, just simply follow this quick guide:

ICE is weak against FIRE, FIGHTING, (STEEL???) and ROCK types.

STEEL is weak against FIRE, FIGHTING and GROUND types.

ROCK is weak against WATER, GRASS, ICE, STEEL, FIGHTING and GROUND types.
