This is just a quick transcription of the enemy list in that encyclopaedia that Nikita flogs to you. At time of writing this information is from the original Japanese version of the game. All names are the Japanese characters then assumed English version, I will verify all names properly with the release of the English translation.

At the moment this list features only stats, I will add item drop lists and probably expanded enemy information such as location, attacks etc, with the release of the English version as I do not have time to translate all the item names, then re-do them when they are changed for the English version.

This release has all 122 normal monster entries filled and I have started on the bosses, next will be black monster stats. When Sword of Mana is released I will see about checking for any changes, the translations, add stuff like locations, tactics etc. (10th September 2003).

Note as of 15/09/03 I am going to be moving house, attending weddings, visiting elderly relations, and will only have net access via a horrible 33K dialup on a Cyrix 6x86 166+, so this FAQ won't be updated for a week or two. Hopefully I will be moved in by the 22nd, and have ADSL on my Athlon XP Barton 2800+ a week or two after that, then I can continue work on the FAQ :)

N O T E S

The sight sense can be translated as clarity/clear/plain/simple sight.
Plain sight seemed to make the most sense.

Insect type could be translated as bug type of course.

The third Grants Soldier can also be translated with (Witchcraft) or (Sorcery). Not sure about the the Grants Soldier's types.

The affiliations for the Grants Soldiers are from the Ultrahint guide, which ommits to show the sword and Gnome info. I'll do some experimentation to determine, but I assume they are the same as the other affiliations for the soldiers.

Humanoid types should be "Bad/Evil Man" I think, but that doesn't make much sense.

Undead type translates as "Immortal" or "Undying" literally.

"Oddity" is not a correct type translation, it should be "none"
-something, but that was the translation they used in Legend of Mana and I have no idea what it should actually be...

Patukuaiotama should probably be something other than "Paku Eater".

No idea what Kinadana means, nothing to do with dwarves or silver as far as I know, no idea what Suna no Nuikiyuau should be correctly translated as...

Not sure if Boinuisubain should be Poisonous Vine or not...

Credits:

Koichii Ishii and all at Brownie Brown for a wonderful game.

Thanks to CJayC for all his work as usual.

Big credit to Shdwrlm3 & AstroBlue for the first and great FAQ/Walkthrough for the game, and Terence for his elite skills.

Thanks to Brett Swapp for the correct translations on some KataKana.

Thanks to Sariel V for a more KataKana translation ammendments, and most of the Grans Soldier affiliations from the Ultrahint guidebook.

Thanks to mel, Sariel, Foz, Miranda, anyone who is a big Seiken Densetsu fan :)
