iii) Teams

There are thirty six college teams in this game, each one has a full roster of players. Each team gets a team ranking by how well all of the players at that position do. The ratings per position are 0 to 100, but rarely do you see anything below a sixty. It is wise to play to your teams strengths [duh].

iv) Rosters

All thirty six teams boast a roster of equal size. Every position rates the players on different stats. Quarterbacks for example are rated mostly on their range and accuracy. Receivers on their hands and speed. Running backs on speed and tackle breaking abilities. Listed below are tables of the players for all of the teams. Range applies to Quarterbacks, Kickers and Punters while Hands apply to all other positions. Tackle is for defensive players, accuracy is for Quarterbacks, Kickers and Punters. Power is for Receivers and Running backs, it is their ability to break at tackle and take a hit. Block is for offensive linemen. The Quickness

v) Offensive Plays

There are twelve formations to choose offensive plays from. Each formation has a good deal of plays which may be chosen. Running plays appear in white, passing plays in yellow. Here I shall list the plays and describe what should happen and if necessary what actually does happen. Option plays are also listed in white along with running plays.

Wishbone Formation

The Wishbone formation lines up two receivers to the right side and three running backs in the backfield.

TRP. OPT. R. - The QB has the option to run the ball himself or dish it off to the FB or RB. The FB heads left whilst the other options all favor the right.

TRP. OPT. L. - The same play as above, but the action goes to the left where there is far less blocking. Not nearly as appealing.

HB Dive - The QB hands the ball off to the HB on the left side who runs up between the guard and tackle. This play does not work well.

HB Lead - The ball is given to the HB who follows the lead of the FB straight up the center.

FL Streak - This pass play is designed for the FL [A] to cut across the field while another WR and HB go out on the edges.

Double Cross - The name of this play is quite deceptive. The FL and WR go out straight while one of the HBs runs a curvy route to the left.

HB Screen - Passing play with the FL and WR going up the field straight out while there is lots of movement in the backfield to throw off the defense.

TE Streak - The FL goes straight out while the TE goes out short and cuts all the way across the field while the FB goes up the middle to try and draw a 'screen' to use a basketball term.

Flexbone Formation

The Flexbone is similar to the Wishbone except one of the RBs in the backfield is removed and replaced with a receiver on the left side.

TRP. OPT. R. - Just like the wishbone play, just different blocking.

TRP. OPT. L. - Just like the wishbone play, much better blocking.

Counter OPT. - A really damn confusing play which often results in a massive loss of yardage.

HB Inside - An HB lines up on the flex of the bone and runs in to get the hand off and tries to cut up the middle between the guard and center.

TE Curl - An all out pass play. The TE curls in while the FL runs out and the other WR slants across from left to center.

HB Screen - Another passing play, the HB runs backwards awaiting a screen pass while the other receivers go medium distance.

Out & Up - One of the best passing plays in the entire game. All of the WRs go out and slant or cut back their routes. Very effective against man to man defense and not too shabby against zone.

Criss Cross - The HB and TE both cross each other at short yardage while the FL on the left goes deep downfield.

Trap Formation

This formation lines up on RB behind the QB and four receivers, two on each side of the line.

TRP. OPT. R. - Just like the wishbone play, just different blocking.

TRP. OPT. L. - Just like the wishbone play, much better blocking.

HB Inside - An HB lined up as a receiver comes in for a hand off and tries to work his way between the center and the right guard.

HB Screen - Similar to the Flexbone play except the other two receivers both slant to the middle.

Slants - Another great passing play. All of the receivers go out pretty deep and slant towards the middle. A real mess can be created with defenders trying to follow their man.

Rollout P - Another all out pass play, this one gives a good mix with one slant route, one curl route and a straight route.

Outs - A very deep route is run on the left, while the two right receivers both curve to the right sideline.

Streaks - The receivers run deep and straight. Not much to talk about, big yards if you catch it.

I Formation

This formation lines up three receivers and two RBs straight behind the QB. Oddly this makes a T instead of an I... and the T formation makes an I not a T but who am I to criticize.

TRP. OPT. R. - Just like the wishbone play, just different blocking.

TRP. OPT. L. - Just like the wishbone play, much better blocking.

STUD. BODY L - This play doesn't work, at all. In theory the back RB is going to get the ball and explode with great blocking from everyone. However, the AI for blocking is so low, unless you have human blockers you may never see a positive gain.

STUD. BODY R - Same as above except it goes right.

Quick Slant - This pass play as two WRs and an RB all do slanting routes in various places.

TE Fade - Virtually identical to the Criss Cross play, this one does allow the extra receiver to go deeper.

WR Outs - This is a great pass play. The WRs spread out nicely and run solid routes at good distances.

Curls - The WRs go out some and curl back, if you don't execute the pass fast enough they'll curl so far back you lose yardage.

Veer

The Veer formation lines up three WRs, one in the slot on the right. One RB lines up behind the QB and the other somewhat to the right of the QB, but ahead of the other RB.

Flex Lead - The backmost RB follows the other one up around the receivers in a run.

HB Counter - The HB is handed off the ball and tries to make room around the left tackle.

Option R. - Ugh. The QB can sneak right or pitch right, either way it is just wrong.

HB Toss - One of the better running plays, the blocking is set up quite well on the right side.

FL Hook In - All of the receivers go out but the FL does a slant in [called a hook] in hopes of losing the CB chasing him around.

FL Out - This pass play over stacks the right side. It is almost worthless because of this as every single defender will tip it.

All In - The two WRs on the right will turn in while the HB works his way to the sideline in hopes of getting a short gain.

Outs - Another good pass play, all of the receivers either turn or slant to the right after going a good distance.

Tee Formation

Two WRs, one on each side and a full backfield of RBs.

HB Lead L - The middle RB gets the ball as the other HB and FB try to block for him.

FB Counter - A rare play for a fullback, he gets the ball and doesn't follow his blockers rather using them as a decoy.

HB Lead R - Opposite of HB Lead L.

Scissors - If this play opens up properly, you'll score every time with the slowest guy on the field. If it doesn't, you'll gain 0-3 yards every time. The run gives it to the left HB and he runs around the other RBs and they all bust through different points on the line.

Power Lead - The FB gets the handoff and follows the block of both HBs.

Curls - Similar to other curl plays, the difference is one of the HBs goes to the left sideline.

QB Boot - A bootleg play, the WRs run great routes, so don't even bother giving it to the HB who runs a screen like route.

TE Out - The TE on the right runs up and then way to the right. The other WR curls on the left as the HB goes out to the left sideline.

Pro Form

This formation is virtually identical to the Flexbone formation except both of the HBs line up next to each other except offset.

FB Counter - The FB gets the handoff and is blocked for by the HB.

HB Sweep - Everyone goes to the right and blocks for the HB who gets the hand off.

HB Toss - The HB gets the hand off and runs up to the left side. Blocking is not good here.

HB Toss & Pass - Similar to the previous play, in this one the HB gets the option to throw the ball to a number of targets, too bad their arms aren't all that great.

FB Trap - Similar to the FB counter from the Tee formation.

Off Tackle - The HB gets the ball and runs cross field to the right and hopes blocking has made a great opening, which seldom happens.

Cross Pass - All of the WRs cross their routes at some point using slants.

Rollout Pass - Much like Rollout P from before, the only real good target is receiver C.

Quick Posts - WRs run out and slant in slightly for a quick pickup of short to medium yardage.

Hook Outs - Oddly, only receiver C even does a hook, B runs a good route too.

All In - All of the receivers run out and in some manner come back towards the middle of the field. Balls get tipped a lot on this play.

Play Action - Lots of backfield movement can get the receivers open quite well downfield for long grabs.

Shotgun

Four receivers line up staggered while only one RB is in the backfield. This formation is for long pass plays mostly.

HB Draw TRP - A running play with no backfield blocking. Don't try it.

HB Shov. Pass - You can pass to the right where two WRs will cross each other or dish of to the HB in the backfield.

Quick Slant - A nice combination of slants and hooks at moderate yardage, good play.

HB Toss - More effective than the other HB Toss plays, WRs will take a beating trying to block though.

QB Waggle - The QB scrambles to the right waiting for people to get open down field.

Strng Hooks - The receivers go out and curl in after running terrible routes, I would not recommend this play.

Deep outs - Another good outs play. The HB goes about moderate distance and slants over across the field while everyone else goes really damn far.

Hail Mary - They run straight out... all the way out... Use this for the miracle game winner.

Near Formation

Three WRs line up and two RBs in the backfield, one behind the QB and the other to his right.

HB Counter - The HB gets the hand off and is supposedly going to cross the back field and make a gain.

HB Toss - One of the better HB Tosses, the blocking sets up nicely.

HB Ts. Sweep - The HB gets the pitch and runs across the entire backfield trying to get some blocking.

FB Lead - The FB gets the handoff and runs pretty much next to the HB. I think he is supposed to be blocked for, but it never in fact happens.

TE Screen - The TE runs a screen pass route while the other two WRs go out on medium ranged routes. Chances are the TE will be open, you can pick up a few yards without trouble.

FB Dive - The FB gets the handoff and runs up between the guard and tackle, in theory this is for a third and one yard to go as you won't have room to do much other than dive.

Strg. Flood - Similar to String Hooks, the WRs are cross over each other and do hook routes. This pass is very dangerous.

Rollout R. - Another rollout pass, this one to the right and involving of a good RB route.

HB Sweep left - Almost identical to HB Ts. Sweep.

Play Action - Like the previous PA pass, this one works great too, but it isn't quite as deep.

FB Circle - The FB takes a long curved route towards the middle of the field while everyone else runs slant routes.

TE Corner - Another play in which everyone flocks one side of the field, these seldom work.

Far Formation

Identical to the near formation except the second RB is on the left side, not the right.

HB Toss Sweep - Runs the same as the Near formation play, just to the right.

FB OPT Dive - Another play designed to get about a yard. The FB can dive up between the guard and tackle or the guard and center.

FB Screen - A pass play which the FB runs a screen pass route, just throw it to receiver B instead.

HB Trap - This running play doesn't work how it is designed. Just run to the left side with it for better results.

Ply Act. Pass - Another Play action pass, this one goes pretty deep with one of every type of route. Nice play.

Weak Flood - Everyone runs routes to the left in hopes of hurting zone defense, man to man will own you.

Hooks - The receivers hook so much it is almost like a curl pass, if you don't get rid of the ball somewhat quickly, they'll wind up running back at you.

Strg. Flood - Everyone runs out routes on the right side. Equally as dumb as the weak side play!

Goal line

Very similar in layout to the I formation. The plays are just designed for short yardage.

QB Sneak - Duh, the QB runs with the ball off the center.

HB Cut Right - The HB gets the hand off on the left and then switches over to run on the right side.

HB Lead R - Same as HB Lead L, but to the right!

Play Action - The worst of the play action passes as there is little room to pass in the end zone.

FB Cut Left - The FB gets the hand off and runs up to the left, no HB blocking makes this hard to do.

Flood Left - This is one case where the flood plays work wonders. Even if you can't get someone open, you'll have a boatload of room to QB sneak to the right.

FB Pull - The FB gets the hand off and goes for the TD between the RG and RT.

Special Teams

Special teams are generally done on fourth down or at the end of a half for a field goal.

Punt - You punt the ball to the other team!

Fake Punt - Your punter fakes the punt and throws to one of three targets, not such a great idea.

Field Goal - You try to kick a field goal for three points.

Fake Field Goal - HOLY * does this work well. The QB will throw the ball instead of the kicker kicking it. Receivers run godly routes on this play. It is quite easy to score on the five yard pass.

vi) Defensive Formations

Instead of list each type of play I'll just describe the formations here. In most formations there are many types of plays. On a blitz, many defenders all charge in to sack the QB but leave open many pass routes. On a prevent defense a team concedes short gains to prevent big ones. Man to man coverage is when defenders are assigned to a particular receiver, they tend to get bunched up on crossing routes but defend well against flood routes. Zone defense is when pass defenders each cover an area. They get overwhelmed on flood routes but can contain most cross routes.

The 4-4 lines up four linemen and four line backers. Used for heavy rushes.

The 4-3 is a common defense, using four linemen and three line backers along with four men in the secondary.

The 3-4 lines up only three linemen and four linebackers. This leaves a solid pass defense though a bit weak on the pass rush.

Nickel defense runs only two line backers and five men in the secondary, it is used to prevent most passing plays though runs will get good yardage.

Dime defenses use only one line backer and six men in the secondary. They are used to prevent passes even more, though give up short passes and runs all of the time.

Goal Line - Used when your back is against the end zone or in danger of giving up a critical first down. This formation will shut down most running plays and passes of very small yardage, but many long passes will go undefended.
