1. - Controls	HRN1
---------------	------

Batting:

D-Pad - Move
A - Swing
B - Steal (Must use D-Pad to indicate which player to steal with)
Start - Pause
Select - Switch side (only available for switch hitters)

Baserunning:

D-Pad+B - Advance Runner (Use D-Pad pointing to next base)
D-Pad+A - Return Runner (Use D-Pad pointing to previous base)

Fielding:

D-Pad - Move
A - Dive (While moving)/Throw ball (when you have the ball)
B - Run down a runner (Press direction of next base to run down player in a pickle)

Pitching:

D-Pad - Move before pitching/Change direction of ball after pitching
A - Pitch
Start - Pause

- * Picking the right stadium. This one isn't too important but it's kind of nice to be able to pick. Every stadium has proportional dimensions but some are bigger than the others so it's basically like a difficulty setting. Below is the list of stadiums and their dimensions:

Stadium:	Side:	Center:
Sinrin	80M	100M
Se Fu	90M	110M
Siell Dome	100M	120M

- * Learn to judge where the ball is going. It could be tough at first but you must be able to accurately judge the ball in order to win these games.
- * The players in this game move pretty quickly so go ahead and try to make some quick diving plays with the infielders instead of playing it safe and giving it to the outfielders.
- * If you get the ball in the outfield and it's not a pop out, always throw it to the next base that the runner could run to. You most likely won't beat him but this way you can prevent him from getting any further.
- * If you're in the deep outfield, throw it to the cut off man. For example, if you're in right field throwing to third base, throw it to the player in the middle at second base and then quickly throw it to third base.
- * Be very careful when base running. Unlike games like RBI Baseball, everything moves a lot quicker and more smoothly so sometimes a double will even be difficult to get.

This is my first game that I attempt to type out Japanese names. Bear with me please as there are likely a couple of mistakes.
