I. Update History

v0.50 - Posted FAQ with complete statistics of most monsters in Ailily and Doplund regions. Updates will continue as I progress through the game or receive e-mails from fellow players.

v0.95 - Added complete statistics of all monsters in Ailily, Doplund, and Gavada regions, and several reader contributions. Still missing complete drop and steal lists for a few monsters and statistics for the Radiants and some of the unlisted enemies.

v1.00 - Added several reader contributions, including additional information about the relationship between levels and experience, and made format changes and corrections to several sections. Still missing locations and drop and steal lists for a few enemies, but I officially consider this FAQ complete. However, I will continue to add information as I make new discoveries or receive e-mails from fellow players.

v1.05 - Added more enemy locations, drop and steal lists, and some reader contributions, and made minor format changes and corrections to several sections.

v1.06 - Added missing enemy locations and a few more drops and steals as submitted by readers, made a minor formatting change, and updated the Special Thanks section.

v1.10 - Added statistics for Raine, completed the drop and steal lists, made some corrections and changed the formatting to make the FAQ easier to read, and updated the Special Thanks section.

III. Foreword

Greetings! As a fan of the Tales series since I first played Tales of Destiny 2 and a compulsive collector of monster data since I first looked at a strategy guide for Dragon Warrior, I noticed that there was no enemy FAQ for this game. Knowing one's enemies is the key to victory in battle, and I hope that this guide will give those who read it the knowledge they need to master the game... or, at the very least, serve as a useful source of enemy-related information.

If you, too, are a compulsive collector of monster data, the Enemy Book will be one of your greatest assets. This book is a collection of information on most of the monsters in the game, and is automatically updated every time you scan a monster by using a Magic Lens, a Priest's Inspect Magic, or a Hunter's Inspect Eye. Scanning a monster will reveal its current and maximum HP, Physical Attack and Defense, Magic Attack and Defense, and elemental weaknesses and strengths. These values, along with the Level, Weight, Basic EXP, and Gald values of the scanned monster, will be added to the Enemy Book after the battle. The Drop and Steal fields, however, will remain populated by question marks until you find or steal the items that the monster carries.

Even if you have no interest in collecting data, scanning monsters still serves a purpose. Scanning every monster in the Enemy Book will unlock the Monster Pundit title, which lowers the enemy encounter rate in dungeons. This can be quite useful for saving time during future playthroughs.

All entries in this FAQ will be set up in the following format:

#<monster's entry number> - <monster's name>

Location: The area in which the monster can be found. Some monsters will only appear during certain quests, the names of which will be enclosed in quotation marks.

LV: The monster's level.

HP: The monster's Hit Points.

P. ATK: The monster's Physical Attack.

P. DEF: The monster's Physical Defense.

M. ATK: The monster's Magic Attack.

M. DEF: The monster's Magic Defense.
Weak: The elements to which the monster is vulnerable.
Strong: The elements to which the monster is resistant.
Weight: The monster's weight. Affects how far the monster can be knocked back or thrown by certain Artes.
Basic EXP: The amount of experience received for defeating the monster if your party's average level is the same as the monster's level. The greater the level difference, the less experience you'll gain.
Gald: The amount of Gald received for defeating the monster.
Drop: The items that the monster may drop when defeated.
Steal: The item that a Thief can steal from the monster.
Notes: Miscellaneous information about the monster, such as status-changing attacks.

The statistics listed in both the Enemy Book and this FAQ are for Normal difficulty only. On Hard and Very Hard difficulty, all monster parameters will be significantly higher.

V. Questions & Answers

Q: Why an Enemy FAQ?

A: It hadn't been done yet, and I've always enjoyed collecting data about monsters. I've annoyed more than one Tales-playing friend with my obsessive use of Magic Lenses, but I think it's for a good cause.

Q: The Enemy Book doesn't include the locations of or notes about monsters and doesn't use commas when displaying their HP. Why did you?

A: They make the FAQ more informative and easier to read.

Q: What's your favorite character class?

A: I prefer Fighters for their speed and numerous multi-hit attacks.

Q: Your FAQ sucks! I've crapped out better FAQs than this!

A: As soon as you find a way to upload excrement, you should post your wondrous creation for all to see.

Q: I posted my FAQ, and everyone I know thinks it's better than yours! Your FAQ really DOES suck!

A: Congratulations! I am in awe of your superior FAQ-writing skills! Now go away.

Q: This is the best FAQ I've ever read! You're a genius and a god among men, and I want to know more about you so that I can immortalize you!

A: I hear that one a lot. My contact info's listed below.

Q: <insert some question that has nothing to do with Tales of the World or the FAQ here>

A: See the second sentence of my previous answer.

VI. Special Thanks

I would like to thank...

...Namco, for creating the Tales series.

...Namco Bandai Games and Ubisoft, for developing Tales of the World.

...rpgplayer012 of GameFAQs, for the quest lists he provided in his FAQ. They saved me from having to replay the game to remember when certain monsters appeared.

...ZeroHiei of GameFAQs, for the drop and steal lists he provided in his FAQ. I was afraid I'd never meet another Muscipula.

...dragonblood459@hotmail.com, for providing the stats of Greater Knights, the first Ganser, the Radiant Healer/Wizard/Fencer/Hunter/Paladin, and drop and steal lists for a number of enemies.

...Dustin Gerspach (aerocyprus@yahoo.com), for providing the stats of the Radiant Thief/Sage/Ninja, drop and steal lists for a number of enemies, and a tidbit about the relationship between levels and experience gained.

...Chester Tan (chester1993@hotmail.com), for providing information about the Chickenz and Bear Killer.

...Eeon Poh (brendan658@hotmail.com), for providing information about several different monsters and their drops.

...tangentcube@mail.com, for sharing a memory dump that had all the information I needed to complete the drop and steal lists and verify some of my statistics.

...GameFAQs, for posting this FAQ.

...IGN, for posting this FAQ.

...Neoseeker, for posting this FAQ.

...Super Cheats, for posting this FAQ.

...you, for reading this FAQ.

VII. Contacting Me

If you want to get in touch with me, send an e-mail to the following address:

mythrilwurm[at]gmail[dot]com

Be sure to replace [at] and [dot] with the appropriate symbols, and include the word "FAQ" in the subject line of your e-mail to ensure that it doesn't wind up in my spam folder. I check my e-mail every day, so you should receive a reply quickly in most cases. I happily accept praise, corrections, and constructive criticism, and will give you credit for any information you share with me that I decide to add to the FAQ. Rude, crass, or unintelligible e-mails will be ignored or mercilessly ridiculed as my mood dictates, so keep your e-mails clear and polite if you want me to respond in kind.

I also use Skype and various IM clients occasionally. If you want my contact information, ask for it via e-mail.

Happy gaming!
