Jeopardy! Sports Edition can actually be played with 3 players using 2 controllers. If you are playing 2 player with 2 controllers, both players just use their own controller. If you are playing 3 player, the first two players will share the 1st controller. The first player will buzz in with the d-pad and the second player will buzz in with any of the buttons on the right side of the controller (A, B, X, Y.) The third player will solely control the second controller. When either the first or second player buzzes in, they should gain full control of the controller and answer normally.

2. - Introduction

---

I'm sure everybody reading this FAQ has at the very least, watched a game of Jeopardy. It is a trivia game show where Alex Trebek gives you an answer for a category and you have to give the question. The questions are given in the form of "What is...", "Who is...", etc. The game will give you that part so all you have to do is type out the correct answer, or for the sake of Jeopardy, the correct question. When you are reading the answers in the next section, the "A" is the answer, or the part that is given on the screen. The "Q" is the question which is what you will have to type out.

The point of the game is obviously to get the questions correct, but also to have the most money at the end of the game. If you answer a question correctly, you will be awarded with that many dollars. However, if you answer incorrectly, you will be penalized that much! The first two rounds will consist of six categories and five questions in each category. The first round will have prizes worth $100, 200, 300, 400, and 500 respectively. The second round will have prizes worth $200, 400, 600, 800, and 1000 respectively.

There is also a "Daily Double" question. It will be somewhere on the board completely chosen at random. There is one "Daily Double" question in the first round and two in the second. The contestant who picks the "Daily Double" question is the only one allowed to answer that question and must wager how much they are willing to bet on that question. In the first round, you can be up to $500 even if you don't have any money or as much money as you have. In the second round, you will be able to bet up to $1,000 even if you don't have any money or as much money as you have. No matter what, you cannot bet $0, the lowest amount you can bet is $5 on a question. You may want to do this if you aren't confident in a category or you have such a large lead that there's no need to risk losing it.

If you have a positive score above $0 after the second round, you will enter the final jeopardy round. You will be shown the final jeopardy category and have to wager whatever amount you want. You will not get to see the question until after you wager so either use the answers in this guide or bet based on how much you know in the category. After this final round, whoever has the most money will be the winner.

To quickly find any answer you're looking for, you can search with your browser's search function by hitting ctrl+f and typing in the question you're looking for. Your browser will bring you right to that question! There are a couple of typos and I included them as they were listed in the game. All grammatical symbols are written just as they appear in game as well. For some reason, the questions using quotation marks actually use apostrophes instead so search for the questions that way. The daily double questions will always include quotation marks as well for some reason. As daily double questions are a lot less common, I wrote all the questions out in apostrophes instead of quotations. Also note, all the final jeopardy questions are written with quotation marks instead of apostrophes because all final jeopardy questions are presented in that manner.

If you are looking for a whole category, you can search for just the category name. I suggest checking off the "Match Case" function in the search box and type it in all caps. If you search for football, for example, you will likely go through several mentions of the word before you find the section. The boxes at the top of each column are also usually abbreviated to make the word or phrase fit. I titled every section based on the phrase at the bottom of the screen.

**Note - All of the Final Jeopardy questions are just repeats of the first two rounds. It will always be the first question of a category. As a result, I will not duplicate a second section for Final Jeopardy questions. You can simply search for the question you have using your browser's search function.

*PLEASE NOTE - The way I wrote this guide was to physically play it and write down each and every question I got in game. I could have missed some questions. I went through a hundred rounds without getting any new questions so I figured I was done but if you find any questions that may have unfortunately slipped by, I would greatly appreciate it if you e-mailed me the questions and answers at FrankTheTank3388@gmail.com Thank you for helping!
