SETTING UP YOUR TEAM

Before You Start a Game

In a practice game and tournament, grabbing a bat is done to choose VISITOR or HOME.

Grabbing a Bat

When you press A button, a referee releases the bat and players try to catch it. They grab it by turns hand over hand. The player who holds the bat for the last time is HOME. His team is on the field first.

Indication of Players

In a practice and a tournament after grabbing the bat, the screen displays an indicator for the players. When you call TIME during the game, this screen will also come up.

Player Change

You can change a regular player for a player on the bench. Move the cursor to choose a player by pressing Control pad up and down and then pressing A button.

A player who has a symbol of a ball next to his name is one who has high ability as a pitcher. You can exchange this player with other fielders. Also, other players can go to the mound as pitchers.

Change Fielders

You can change the fielding position of a player. Select a player and press A button; the cursor will appear. Select another player, and press A button to switch their positions.

Change Orders

To change the batting order, use the same procedure as changing fielders.

End

If you have made all changes or do not want to change other players, press B button twice and then A button.

DEFENSE I

Batting

Control Pad: Use to move a batter. Press control pad up for upper swing, and down for down swing.

A button: Use to swing the bat.

Bunting

Use A button or B button to bunt.

A button bunt: During swing press A button to take a bunting position. The ball can go in three directions: straight, right, or left. Although the accuracy goes down (it is harder to hit the ball), the possibility of being safe is higher because the fielders do not move forward.

B button bunt: Press B button to take a bunting position. The ball can go in two directions: left or right. If you choose B button bunt, fielders move forward. A batter is more likely to be out, but the accuracy is high. When you want to send runners to second base or third base, your chances of succeeding are high.

Use these wisely depending upon circumstances.

Squeeze Play

When a runner is on third base, press B button to put on a squeeze play. A runner on third base starts running at the same time when a pitcher throws a ball. Even if a pitcher does not throw a ball to meet a bat, a batter can jump to hit a ball so that he can succeed in pushing a squeeze play. For the right handed batter, press Control pad right and B button, and for a left handed batter, press Control pad left and B button to jump over.

DEFENSE II

Running to a base

Press Control pad to choose a base, and then press B button. When a batter hits a ball, a player automatically runs to the next base. When you want to make players run, use the above mentioned procedure.

Returning to a base

Press Control pad to select a base and press A button. When ball is a "fly ball" and a player does not tag up, he can return to the base even though he has stepped on the next base.

Pause

Press Control pad down, and press A button to stop players on all bases. In order to let them run again, use procedures for running to a base or returning to a base.

Stealing a base

Press Control pad to pick a base and press B button to steal.

Stealing a base is done at the same time that a pitcher throws the ball. If the pitcher tries to pick off the runner, you have to return to base, otherwise you will be out.

FIELDING

Pitcher

Press Control pad left or right to change the pitcher's position on the mound. Then press A button to pitch.

The degree of curve for a ball depends upon each individual player.

(Until a pitcher throws a ball)

(After a pitcher throws a ball)

Catching a ball

Press Control pad to move players. When you bring a player to a ball, the player automatically catches it.

Selection of Bases with the Control Pad

Throwing the Ball

Press Control pad to choose a base and press A button. When you press both buttons simultaneously, a ball becomes a fast ball. If there is no designation of a base, the ball goes to first base.

Touching a Base

Press Control pad to select a base and press B button. While a player is running to a base, he can change his direction and go to a different base.

Diving Catch

Press Control pad left or right and press A or B button to jump to the sides. Press Control pad down and press A or B button to jump forward.

Jumping Catch

Press Control pad up and press A or B button to jump.

FIELD SHIFT

Throughout the game, the computer takes the most appropriate shift according to various circumstances, but you can freely change the field shift.

Press Control pad down twice to see a display for field shifts, and press Control pad down twice again to see the cursor. Press Control pad up, down, left, or right to change shifts for infielders and outfielders.

Types of Changes

Infield: Normal (regular shift)
D.P. (middle shift)
Force (advanced shift)
Bunt (Bunt shift)

Outfield: Normal (regular shift)
Short (advanced shift)
Deep (backward shift)

When changes for field shifts are done, or if no changes are necessary, press A button or B button to make the cursor disappear. Press Control pad up twice to return to the previous display.

Until a batter is changed or the condition of a player is changed, a confirmed field shift will continue.

TIME

During the game when you press the start button, a screen for TIME comes up.

Press A button to see the display for players who you want to change.

Pinch Hitter

Press Control pad up and down to select, then press A button.

Pinch runner

Names of players and their position on base are shown on the left of the screen, and names of players on the bench are listed on the right of the screen.

Press Control pad left and right to choose a runner, and press A button; then press Control pad up and down and press A button to exchange them.

If there is one runner on a base, you can choose a player from the bench right away.

Change fielders

It is the same procedure as changing batting order.

You can change a pitcher in this command, too. A player with a ball marked cursor is pitcher-oriented, but he can be a fielder, too. A player with a normal cursor can be a pitcher, too.

Skill Points

Each player has skill points which show his ability under various situations. It shows how well they can play under poor or good conditions. The higher the points are, the more skill he has, and the better he will perform.

LITTLE LEAGUE LOCAL RULES

Judgement for Fair & Foul

When a foul ball is hit, the word FOUL will appear on the screen.
When a ball is fair, no words will be shown.

Extra Innings and No Game

Extra innings are up to 18. After the 18th inning in the exhibition mode, if the score is still tied, the game will remain tied. In the tournament there will be no game; the game will not count. Please start over again.

Called Game

If there are 10 points difference or either team gets 100 points, the game will be over in that inning and the game will be called.

Game Limit

A Little League game will have only six innings.
