CONTROLLER NOTES

Stella Deus: The Gate of Eternity is a 1-player game which only utilizes controller port 1.

An analog controller such as the DUALSHOCK®2 analog controller with an analog stick is required to play the game.

The land of Solum...
A continent engulfed in a deadly mist called the Miasma.

Nothing swallowed by the ancient fog ever emerged;
the Miasma turned all to nothingness.

This plague ushered in an age of despair.
Humanity lost all hope, and was driven to the brink of insanity.

Thieves, traitors, and murderers led Solum to chaos.
The land became a hell on earth.

However, a ray of hope sparkled in Solum's darkest night.

That hope was the Aequae religion, teaching the doctrine of a peaceful end.

So it is written:

God's will for our broken world is destruction. Those who accept this and await their fate will be welcomed at His side.

The ideology of the Aequae freed people from their fear, but at the same time, it robbed them of their will to live.

The chaos subsided. Apathy spread like a blanket as people awaited their peaceful end.
Then, a man named Dignus stepped forward.

Declaring himself Overlord, Dignus gathered an army.
He overthrew the kingdom of Fortuna, slaughtering the apathetic masses.

As quickly as peace had come, fear began to stir the people of Solum.
Now the source of that fear, the Overlord himself,
is descending on our hero's village.

GAME PROGRESSION

The game alternates between 2 basic areas: the World Map, and battle fields.

About the World Map and Battles

Stella Deus is split between the World Map and battles. Select a destination on the world map and win battles to progress the story.

World Map

This is where you'll move around the map and prepare for battle. Select a destination with the cursor and press the X button to move. Pressing the Δ button will display the Camp Menu, and the START button will display the System Menu.

Power up
the Party

Camp Menu

Visit the Shop to buy equipment, or the Guild to fuse items and accept quests. You can also power up your characters or equip new skills, so always visit Camp between battles. Lastly, you can choose to level up in the Catacombs of Trial.

Battles

The red mark on the World Map indicates your next destination. When you arrive there, the story will unfold and a battle will ensue. If you are victorious, you'll return to the World Map and travel to your next destination. If you cannot win the battle, power up your party in the Camp Menu.

| SYSTEM |
| FIELD |
| BATTLE |

The World Map's an important screen; it's where you'll shop, open menus, and initiate battles. Here are the details of the World Map:

About the World Map and the Battle Screen

Movement, shopping for items, and entering battle are all initiated from this screen. As the story progresses, your movement options will increase...but first, you need to learn how to read the map.

Viewing the World Map

- 1: Date: The current date. Moving to an adjoining area costs one day.
- 2: Area: Locations you can move to. The flashing red area is your next plot destination. The destinations are connected by paths which your party travels.
- 3: Current Area: Your party's present location.
- 4: Cursor: Use this to select a destination.
- 5: Area Name: The name of the currently selected area.

Moving to the Next Area

Move the cursor to the the desired area and press the x button to move. If you go to the flashing red area, the story will progress and a battle will follow. Nothing will happen if you stop on a white area unless the area is related to a quest you are currently undertaking.

Areas are connected by paths along which the party travels.

[Red Area]

The next required destination. Moving here progresses the story and begins a new battle.

[White Area]

An area you have not cleared. You may move to these areas, but cannot enter them.

The Flow of Time

It takes one day to travel between two areas. Keep this in mind, as certain quests have time constraints. Also, entering the Catacombs of Trial takes one day.

[About the Flow of Time]

Time passes as you move across the map. Wander too much, and you'll risk failing quests. However, certain events will not occur unless you move.

The Camp Menu is an invaluable tool in your adventure.

Using the Menus

You may access two menus from the World Map. The Δ button displays the Camp Menu (P18) and the START button displays the System Menu (P13). Learn to use them both.

The Relationship Between Areas and Quests

Entering red areas will advance the story. These areas remain red until you enter them. After accepting a quest (p19), events may occur in white areas as well. This will vary depending on the quest you've selected. Keep an eye on time and distance, as both can affect quests.

CAMP MENU

Going camping?

Using the Camp Menu, you can visit the Shop and the Guild, as well as customize your party. It's very important to use the Camp Menu to its fullest.

Five Essentials

Pressing the Δ button opens the Camp Menu. There are five choices to select from. Town and Party are important, as they allow you to strengthen your characters and examine their stats.

1: Town

There are three areas you can visit by selecting Town: The Shop, The Guild, and Catacombs (Catacombs of Trial). You can purchase or sell weapons, armor, and items at The Shop. In The Guild, you may accept quests or fuse items.

The Shop The Guild The Catacombs of Trial

The Shop

Four choices are available at the shop. The items available to you will vary depending on your progression through the story.

|-----------------|---|
| [TRY ON] | You may sample equipment before you buy. At the bottom of the screen you'll see the amount of money you have to spend (Current), the price of the equipment (Cost), and the money remaining if you make the purchase (Balance). |
| [BUY] | Purchase items. Use the directional buttons to select an item, the quantity of your purchase, and press the X button. |
| [SELL] | Sell items from your inventory. Use the directional buttons to select an item, the quantity of your sale, and press the X button. |
| [EQUIP] | Equip characters with items from your inventory. For more details, please see p.20. |

[Utilizing the Shop]

By Trying On equipment, you can view any stat changes before making a purchase. Use this to your advantage by sampling everything. Make sure your characters have the best equipment before entering the next battle.

CAMP MENU

2: PARTY

This is where you organize the party. There are six sub-choices in this menu. It's a good idea to check your party before each battle, as you can equip items and skills or power up your characters.

Equip Skill Power Up Item Status Rank Up

Equip

Equip weapons, armor, and items. There are four different equipment slots: Weapon, Armor, Headgear, and Item. Select a slot and press the X button, then choose what you wish to equip.

Equipment Icons

Each character uses a specific type of weapon, including: Katana, Swords, Bows, Axes, Spears, Knives, Argyrion, Gloves, and Staffs. Spero can equip two katana at a time.

Armor

The two different armor types are Mails and Robes, and anyone can equip either type. Mail is good for defense but tends to be heavy, while robes are light but weak.

Headgear

There are two types of Headgear: Helmets and Hats. Like armor, anybody can equip either type.

Item

Up to four healing items or accessories may be equipped. Jewelry, gauntlets, and shoes are all useful accessories. Note that only one shoe or gauntlet may be equipped at a time.

[Equip Items Accordingly]

Only four items may be equipped in the Item slot. Plan carefully—you can only use items in battle if you've equipped them.

Equipment Weight

Every item has a certain weight, and the total weight of your equipment affects how much AP is used during battle. You have to trade mobility for defense, so be sure to balance the two factors carefully.

BATTLE SYSTEM

Battle Basics

AP plays a crucial role in character order and the actions taken. AP is used when a character moves or attacks, and he or she will have another turn once the AP refills. Use this knowledge to predict turn order, and stay ahead of the game.

Before making a decision, consider the turn order of enemies and allies.

[Calculate Your Moves]

You have the ability to manipulate turn order, so planning ahead is essential. For instance, if the first character has low HP, you can place him/her fifth in the order, and have the fourth character heal him/her.

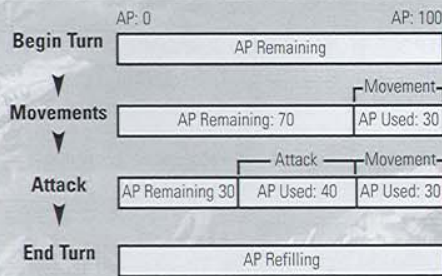

[Understand the AP Cost]

AP starts to refill as soon as you end your turn. This means you can choose to use all 100 AP (after moving and attacking several times) or only using a portion of them (allowing your next turn to come quickly).

AP Example

As you can see in the example to the right, the character moved a distance worth 30 AP and attacked once. There are still 30 AP remaining, but by ending his/her turn, the character ensures a shorter wait time.

[Adjusting the AP and Changing Order]

After selecting Finish, you can adjust the upcoming turn order. The R1/R2 buttons switch character order one at a time. The L1/L2 buttons adjust AP one point at a time. Use this technique to your advantage.

The enemy can't adjust turn order. Use this fact to your advantage.

BATTLE SYSTEM

The Flow of Battle

There are a number of intricacies to battle that can spell the difference between victory and defeat. If your party is placed improperly, for example, it may put you at a disadvantage. Below are some suggestions to keep in mind.

STEP 1 Select/Place Your Characters

Once a battle begins, you must select the characters to participate and their starting positions. Use the L1/R1 buttons to scroll through your party, and the directional buttons and the X button to dispatch the selected character. Up to six characters may take part in a battle. Once finished placing your characters, press the START button to begin the battle.

STEP 2 Defeat the Enemy

Once battle begins, use various attacks and skills to defeat the enemy. Any character whose HP reaches 0 will be removed from battle. Adjust turn order to your advantage and make use of Team Attacks.

STEP 3 Fulfill the Victory Conditions

Each battle has its own conditions of victory. Some stages don't require that you defeat every enemy. You can confirm a battle's victory condition by pressing the START button during battle. Keep in mind that failing to achieve the condition will end the game.

STEP 4 Spoils Screen

After the battle, you'll see the Spoils Screen. This screen lists any items you gained during the battle, and how much money you earned. Press the O button to exit this screen.

Rotating the Screen

Use the right analog stick to rotate the camera and zoom in or out during battle. Changing angles is useful when there are buildings (or other objects) obstructing your current view.

BATTLE SYSTEM

Commands Used in Battle

During battle, you have five commands to select from: Move, Attack, Skill, Item and Finish. Each action uses some AP. Learn how to use them and defeat your enemies.

These five commands are the foundation of battle.

[Move]

Move your character to the designated location. Use the directional buttons to select a space and press the X button to confirm. You may move anywhere highlighted in blue, though the amount of AP used depends on the current character and the distance moved. The red areas indicate attack range from the destination, but will only be shown if enough AP remains to attack. Also, by placing the cursor on an enemy, you will move and attack at the same time (provided you have the required AP).

The AP requirements vary depending on the character and the area's topography.

[Attack]

The character will attack with his/her equipped weapon. Select an enemy in the red area and press the X button to attack. You may attack allies. Also, you may perform a Team Attack if you have one equipped.

Each character's weapon determines his/her method of attack.

Variable Ranges

Normally, attack range is a single space adjacent to the character in any direction. Bows and spears, however, have greater range—spears can reach two spaces in any direction, and bow range increases with height.

Close Range

Spear

Bow

[Height and Attacks]

Some weapons may not be able to reach opponents at different heights.

[Attacking Allies]

If an ally is in range, you can attack him or her just like an enemy. Be careful, as you can do it by moving "onto" allies as well. Also, Grey's spear hits any targets two spaces in the direction of his attack, so don't accidentally kill a comrade.

BATTLE SYSTEM

Team Attacks

By equipping Team Attack Support Skills like Combo Slash, you can have two or more allies gang up on an opponent! You can initiate Team Attacks as long as allies have the same enemy in their Effect Zone (EZ).

Team Attack Conditions

- 1: Have a Team Attack skill (Combo) equipped.
- 2: Have remaining Team Attack stock.
- 3: Target an enemy in the EZ of several allies.

STEP 1 Equip a Team Attack Support Skill

Equip the Team Attack skill (Combo) on the Skill Screen (p.21). Only allies with a Team Attack skill equipped may participate in Team Attacks. In this case, both Spero and Linea have "Combo Slash" equipped.

STEP 2 Place Target in EZ of Participants

Move Spero and Linea toward the target, so he's in both of their EZ. During either character's turn, highlight Attack and press the right directional button to select Team Attack. Now target the enemy.

STEP 3 Select Participants

When the screen on the right is displayed, select which characters will participate in the attack (toggle others OFF). In this case, only Grey and Adara are participating...but up to six characters can perform a Team Attack together. The numbers on the right indicate the character's stock of Team Attacks. A character with 0 stock cannot participate.

STEP 4 Commence Attack

After choosing the attacking characters, select "Commence Attack" and press the X button. Any participant can initiate the Team Attack--but only that character will receive EXP and SP.

Team Attacks are externally powerful. Consider using them against bosses.

BATTLE SYSTEM

[Skill]

Use any of the Action Skills you have equipped. Choose a skill to use with the up and down directional buttons, then confirm by pressing the X button. Then, select a target (within range) with the cursor and press the X button to perform the skill. Skill effects vary between the different skills. Note that you can only use skills if the active character has enough MP and AP.

[Item]

Use any of the Items you have equipped. Choose an item to use with the up and down directional buttons, then confirm by pressing the X button. Then, select a target (within range) with the cursor and press the X button to use the item. You can use items on any characters nearby the active character.

[Finish]

Select this command when the active character is finished taking action. As the character waits for the next turn, his/her AP will slowly refill until it reaches 100. You can also adjust the character's AP after selecting Finish to manipulate battle order.

Adjusting AP

After selecting Finish, you can decide when the character's next turn will be using the L1/L2/R1/R2 buttons. The R1/R2 buttons move the character up and down in the battle order, while the L1/L2 buttons raise and lower AP one point at a time.

Facing a Direction

After selecting Finish, there will be arrows above the character. Use the directional buttons to decide which direction the character should be facing, and confirm with the X button. Getting hit in the back results in heavy damage, so always try to face your opponents.

Make good use of both attack and recovery skills.

A character can only use items he/she has equipped.

Be wary of getting hit from behind.

[Finishing Up]

The Finish command doesn't just end your turn--it also allows you to adjust AP and direction.

BATTLE SYSTEM

Level Up and Game Over

As you continue battling, you will level up. Otherwise, you'll receive a Game Over sooner or later.

[Gaining EXP/SP]

You gain Experience Points (EXP) and Skill Points (SP) by attacking enemies and supporting allies. EXP allows you to increase experience levels, and SP is for powering up your characters. The amount of EXP and SP gained depends on the action taken and the enemy's experience level.

[Leveling Up]

When a character's EXP reaches 100, he/she will level up. By leveling up, you increase a character's stats and abilities. Act efficiently in battle to make the most of your actions, as each one increases EXP.

[Game Over]

Game Over occurs if any of the three things listed take place. Also keep in mind that any character other than Spero will have their Luck reduced when they are defeated.

A Game Over Occurs if...

- Spero is defeated.
- All allies are turned to stone.
- A winning condition cannot be fulfilled.

Developing Characters Wisely

You gain EXP by fighting, but the character who performs the finishing blow on an enemy will receive the most. So allowing a strong character to weaken an opponent, then finishing it off with a weaker character is a good way to level up your party.

Stat changes will take place immediately, in the midst of battle.

BATTLE SYSTEM

Before Moving

It's dangerous to move around without considering a map's geography. A lot of different things factor into movement.

Examine the map before moving.

[Get the Lay of the Land]

Press the button to enter Scroll Map mode and press the X button for information on the currently highlighted space. You should be able to use the map details to your advantage.

Geographical Effects

Each type of land has its own special effects. Check the geography and select squares with high Evasion for defensive positions and high Accuracy for attacking.

[Viewing Character Status]

Placing the cursor on a character and pressing the X button will display his or her status.

Zone Skill Icons

When characters enter the Effect Zone (EZ) of another character, an icon will show up above his/her head.

Learn about opponents before engaging them.

Checking the Area

Selecting a character and pressing the button will display that character's movement range. Pressing the button again will toggle between attack range and EZ.

EZ Icons

-  A helpful Zone Skill
-  A Harmful Zone Skill
-  A Zone Skill that causes ailments.

Finding Items

Stepping on certain spaces in battle may reveal hidden items. There's no way to know beforehand, so try moving to suspicious looking areas.

BATTLE SYSTEM

Attacking Basics

Attacking is a very basic offensive action, but it's also the most versatile. Keep in mind, the enemy can always attack you, too. It's important to plan ahead.

[About Direction]

The damage dealt when attacking depends on which side of the enemy you attack. Attacking from the side raises Accuracy and damage. Damage will be raised even higher if you attack from behind. Move your characters carefully so the enemy is always right where you want it.

[Utilizing Height]

Swords and Axes deal heavy damage, but have short range and are affected by height. Spears and Bows have longer range, but not as much power. It's important to use altitude as a factor in attacking.

Bows

Bows have a wide range, but by climbing higher, the range will increase even more. Try to keep your archers as high up as possible.

Spears

Spears can attack from above or below, though it's always better to be on higher ground.

POWERING UP

Your party will become stronger as they fight in many battles. Fostering character growth is the quickest road to victory.

Different Ways of Powering Up

Your opponents will be stronger as the game progresses. The Catacombs of Trial are an important way of training to defeat more powerful enemies. There are, however, several ways to increase your party's effectiveness.

[Customize Your Character]

Leveling up isn't the only way to become stronger. Using SP gained in battle, you can teach a character new skills or raise specific stats manually.

[Get Powerful Weapons]

You can buy weapons at the Shop, but you'll earn even more powerful ones from Quests. Fusions will also result in stronger weapons than you can buy from the Shop.

[Keep the Party Balanced]

New members will join the party as you progress through the story. However, only a certain amount of people are allowed in battle. If you aren't careful, a gap will grow between the characters you favor in battle and the weaker members. Use the Catacombs of Trial to keep your entire party in fighting shape.

[Increasing Rank]

After certain conditions are met, you can raise your character's rank and power him/her up. Not only will the character's stats increase, but he/she will also learn new skills and gain additional skill equip slots. Try to achieve high ranks for all your characters.
